Three people from each partner organisations*

The CIVIC joint training event (C1 face to face) is focused on the exchange of good practices as a learning resource.

It will focus on a joint learning experience and an exchange between the participants.

The meeting is focused on housing and the best way to training people to improve, develop and support good housing projects for people with experience of severe mental issues.

The aim of the meeting is to discuss and share the experience of each partner on the topic also with reference to the main content from the outputs of CIVIC.

All the partners will contribute to the exchange of experiences giving feedback and speaking about housing issues, starting from one's own experiences (also with other groups, such as: migrants, the elderly, people affected by physical or intellectual disabilities and addictions).

The debate will involve everyone and will be supervised to improve the capacity of each partner to deal with housing and with the main topics of the project (civil rights, local communities' educational pathways on housing, useful expertise to be improved for users, families, volunteers, professionals, citizens).

Learning goals:

Knowledge: at the end of the meeting the participants will learn from reciprocal experiences on educational pathways related to housing and mental health.

Skills: participants will be able to use the training tools and strategies introduced and shared during the meeting.

Competence: participants will be encouraged to integrate what learned during the meeting in their working context, with CIVIC target groups. They will be more competent in collaboration in an EU context.

Outputs: 1. Final revision of the outputs of CIVIC with a focus on its approach to mental health; 2. List of experts in both the output of the project (participants in the meeting)

After the event, each partner will take care of promoting the outputs, locally and / or internationally.
